Young Engineer Award Finalists announced for region's most influential refining and petrochemical technology conference

Innovations and digital transformation in refining, petrochemicals & chemicals to be the key focus for Asia's most influential oil & gas downstream event

SINGAPORE – Over 800 regional and international refining & petrochemical industry leaders and influencers will gather in Singapore at the 12th Asian Downstream Summit and co-located Refining & Petrochemicals Asia Conference, to be held on 30th – 31st October at the Sands Expo & Convention Center.

As the anchor oil and gas event during Singapore International Energy Week, hosted by the Energy Market Authority, the event is able to offer unprecedented and unparalleled opportunities to connect and do business with key regional downstream stakeholders.

The 2019 event will host the Asian Downstream Summit "Awards of Excellence", the most prominent awards ceremony for refining & petrochemicals in the Asia Pacific industry calendar, representing a benchmark of excellence for those working in the oil & gas industry.

"The Asian Downstream Summit Awards program honours and recognizes industry visionaries and companies who have showcased outstanding performance and innovative technologies. These people and their organizations are enabling the market to become ever increasingly efficient through technological development", says Tanushree Mulraj, Director of Conferences at World Refining Association Asia.

We are proud to announce our finalists for the "Young Engineer Award" ceremony taking place alongside the Asian Downstream Summit conference <hyperlink> on 30th October 2019.

Young engineers from Saudi Aramco (Saudi Arabia), Shell (Singapore), Pertamina (Indonesia) and SCG Chemicals (Thailand) are shortlisted in this category.

The Young Engineer of the Year award will recognise a young engineer who has shown potential to become a key contributor to the future development of the industry, showcasing outstanding performance and initiative in his/her organization. The winner of this award is someone who has a strong potential to reach top management level.

INNOVATION & TRANSFORMATION – THE FUTURE OF OIL & GAS

Asian Downstream Summit will also feature workshops, running simultaneously to the conference sessions and an interactive exhibition by leading technology experts. A purpose-built technical theatre on the exhibition floor will provide technology companies with the opportunity to host expert talks showcasing their latest innovations.

Conference delegates will have the opportunity to pre set-up meetings using our special networking application and also take part in an interactive Q&A during conference sessions using our multiple response program.

“Asian Downstream Summit gave us very useful information and showcased digital technologies, while also offering exceptional networking opportunities. Come and see with your own eyes”. SRISURANG PONGPAWE, Lead Engineer - Digital Manufacturing, SCG Chemicals, Thailand
